V

Presentation of the Trustee Awards for Faculty, Staff, and Student Excellence

Cornelia P. Thornburgh

Faculty

Eric Galm,

Associate Professor of Music

You are a dynamic professor whose varied courses require and inspire active engagement and a leader who brings international recognition that helps to promote Trinity as an outstanding institution with a vibrant program in the arts.

Staff

Lukman Arsalan,

Senior Associate Director of International Admissions and Student Success

You are an admissions professional who embodies the mission and vision of Trinity; you have been responsible for bringing in the largest class of international students in the college's history and have positively impacted the culture of international students on our campus.

Joseph C. Barber,

Director of Community Service and Civic Engagement

As a student affairs administrator with a long record of leading Trinity students toward bridging the divide between the college and the city of Hartford, you have made tremendous contributions that have helped to make both better places to live and to work.

Students

Cassia Jade Armstrong, Class of 2018

You are the liberal arts in action, exemplifying sustained and holistic excellence through your study and research in environmental science and chemistry, as an international student mentor and teaching assistant, as a leader and volunteer in numerous organizations, through your work as a filmmaker, and more.

Amro M. S. Arqoub, Class of 2018

Neuroscientist, diplomat, world traveler, and change agent—you personify the intellectually engaged excellence and real-world education that distinguish Trinity; you are an inspired and inspiring creator of impassioned and compassionate dialogue across differences, affecting minds, brains, and hearts.

VI

Presentation of the Thomas Church Brownell Prize in Teaching and Dean Arthur H. Hughes Award for Achievement in Teaching

Tim Cresswell

The Thomas Church Brownell Prize for Teaching Excellence

Diana R. Paulin,

Associate Professor of English and American Studies

You are a beloved teacher whose courses cross disciplinary boundaries, and you challenge students to think creatively and to apply what they learn outside the classroom; you also serve as a trusted counselor and mentor to students.

The Dean Arthur H. Hughes Award for Achievement in Teaching

Tamsin Jones,

Assistant Professor of Religious Studies

You are a passionate teacher who is admired for the way you engage students in the philosophical and existential issues of the study and interpretation of religion; you also are a devoted and caring adviser.

VII

Presentation of the Book

Jennifer M. Regan-Lefebvre

Secretary of the Faculty

This precious book has been touched by each graduating class on Commencement day.

It is a symbol of knowledge committed to the care of the faculty during this past year.

On behalf of the faculty, I now present it to you that you may once again place it in the hands of those who are about to be graduated.

President

I accept this book held in your loyal custody, and I gratefully thank all of you for educating these men and women devotedly in the tradition of Trinity College.

Conferring of Honorary Degrees

Joanne Berger-Sweeney

WALTER HARRISON
Trinity Class of 1968
Doctor of Humane Letters

It was your parents, you once said, who instilled in you a lifelong love of learning. That gift most surely affected your path from engaged college student to devoted English professor to knowledgeable university consultant to successful higher education administrator.

As a student at Trinity, you explored your passion for American literature, earning a B.A. with honors in English, and immersed yourself in activities. You were a member of Pi Kappa Alpha, the Atheneum Debating Society, and the staff of the Ivy yearbook, and you took part in Air Force ROTC. You went on to the University of Michigan, where you earned an M.A. in English, and then spent three years in the U.S. Air Force before heading to the University of California, Davis, for a Ph.D. in English.

Your career in higher education began in 1976, first as a member of the English faculty at Johannes Gutenberg University in Mainz, Germany, then at Iowa State University, and later at Colorado College, where you moved into administration, serving as associate director and then director of college relations. After several years with media relations consulting firm Gehrung Associates, you went to the University of Michigan, where you were named vice president of university relations and secretary of the university.

In 1998, you returned to Connecticut and began your nearly 20-year term as the longest-serving president of the nearby University of Hartford. You oversaw tremendous growth in the student population and in the quality and rigor of academic offerings. Under your watch, the university's endowment nearly tripled and the physical campus was transformed, with the construction or renovation of 17 buildings. It is fitting, then, that the libraries there were named in your honor. You also focused on reinvigorating the university's civic involvement. Looking back on your time there, which ended with your retirement last year, it is obvious that you accomplished your goal. You oversaw the relocation of the dance and theater divisions of the university's Hartt School to a site near the line of Hartford's Blue Hills and Upper Albany neighborhoods. You were instrumental in bringing two local schools—a science and engineering magnet high school and an innovative magnet elementary school—to the university's campus, helping both the community and the many UHart students who intern there.

Well-known for your personal commitment to the capital city, you serve on numerous boards, including those of Saint Francis Hospital and Medical Center, where you are vice chair; Hartford Promise, where you are co-chair; Hartford Stage, where you are a past president; and Capitol Squash, located here on the Trinity campus. In 2016, you received an honorary degree from Goodwin College in recognition of your dedication to Hartford.

You have held numerous positions in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), including chair of the NCAA Committee on Academic Performance. Under your leadership, the NCAA strengthened its commitment to student academic success and significantly improved the graduation rate of student-athletes in all sports. For your longtime leadership as an advocate for intercollegiate athletics, you were honored with the NCAA President's Gerald R. Ford Award in 2014.

Your ties to Trinity run deep. In 1998, the college honored you with its Alumni Medal for Excellence, and in 2007, you were named the Trinity Club of Hartford's Person of the Year. You also are a member of the Elms Society.

In recognition of your distinguished career in higher education and of your commitment to the Greater Hartford area, I will be pleased to have the honor of presenting you, Walter Harrison, for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa, during your 50th Reunion in June of this year.

RALPH V. KATZ
Trinity Class of 1965
Doctor of Science

Presented by Professor of Anthropology James A. Trostle

As professor and founding chair of the Department of Epidemiology and Health Promotion at the New York University College of Dentistry, you are known for your exceptional teaching and for your groundbreaking research in the fields of dental medicine and epidemiology. You have shown a deep commitment to ethics and justice both in this country and abroad, with much of your research focused on disparities in health care.

'Neath the elms of Trinity, you majored in biology and enjoyed membership in Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. You also played on the tennis team for four years and participated in Hillel. Your journey in academia continued at Tufts University School of Dental Medicine, where you earned a D.M.D. in 1969. You then served for a year as an intern at the Dentofacial Deformities Center at the Tufts-operated New England Medical Center before moving to the University of Minnesota for an M.P.H. in dental public health and a Ph.D. in epidemiology.

You co-authored "The Tuskegee Legacy Project," a report that shined a light on the recruitment and retention of minorities in biomedical research studies, and you were present in the White House in 1997 for President Bill Clinton's formal apology to those involved in the U.S. Public Health Service Syphilis Study at Tuskegee. In 2001, you received a seven-year, $8.3-million award from the National Institutes of Health to establish the NYU Oral Cancer Research on Adolescent and Adult Health Promotion Center. The center investigates why African Americans and Hispanics have a higher incidence of oral cancer and higher mortality rates from this disease than others. Your first published paper, written in 1976, focused on the oral health needs of those living in in-patient rehabilitation centers; 40 years later, you conducted a follow-up survey of these same individuals and uncovered no gains in access to dental care. This study and others led by you showcase the obstacles to oral health care for those who are homebound, whether because of advanced age or medical condition. You also have remained active in collaborations with faculty in Haiti, Puerto Rico, Sweden, and the Philippines. In 2015 and again in 2017, you ventured to Abu Dhabi to teach courses on ethics and public health at NYU's campus there.

You take pride in passing along your knowledge to future generations through the courses you have created, including one on the critical evaluation of scientific literature, which, according to NYU in 2012, was the only course of its kind in a dental school in the United States. You also developed a curriculum for teaching epidemiology to honors students at Hartford's Bulkeley High School. Outside of the classroom at NYU, you are known for the gatherings of your Spaghetti and Science Society, with a group of predoctoral students joining you at a Greenwich Village Italian restaurant to absorb "extra helpings" of science. You also are a prolific author, having penned more than 130 articles on scientific research.

From the early days of your career to more recently, your inspiring work has not gone unnoticed: In 1976, while serving as a major in the U.S. Army Dental Corps assigned to the Institute of Dental Research at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, you received the Commendation Medal for Meritorious Service. In 2012, you received the prestigious NYU Distinguished Teaching Award, the university's highest honor.

In recognition of your distinguished career and enormous contributions to the greater good as an academician and as a researcher, I have the honor of presenting you, Ralph V. Katz, for the degree of Doctor of Science, honoris causa.

WILLIAM PALMER SCULLY
Trinity Class of 1961
Doctor of Humane Letters

Presented by Director of Athletics and Chair of Physical Education Drew Galbraith

“Go forth and do well. But more importantly, go forth and do good.” While you may not have heard these words spoken by former Illinois Wesleyan University President Minor Myers Jr., you have lived your life as though you had.

On your way to earning a B.A. in economics at Trinity, you were active in Alpha Delta Phi, the Sophomore Dining Club, and the varsity basketball and golf teams. After a stint in the Army National Guard of New York, you worked for Francis I. DuPont for 10 years, first as a securities analyst and later as an institutional salesman. During that time, you studied at New York University and became a Chartered Financial Analyst. You moved to F. Eberstadt, where you became a partner, and then accepted an offer from Smith Barney to work as a vice president in institutional sales. A few years later, you and a friend started Twin Oaks Partners, a performance-based hedge fund that met with tremendous success.

You have said that your retirement in 1999 gave you and wife Marlynn the time to enjoy your four married children and your 12 grandchildren and to pursue the philanthropic pursuits you both relish. You have given magnanimously to the fields of education, health care, and the arts. You have been especially generous with Trinity, creating five endowed scholarships honoring your Trinity classmates who later served in the Vietnam War. You also established two endowed funds to support Trinity golf and men’s basketball, a nod to the days when you played on both teams and in recognition of your belief of the importance of the college’s scholar-athlete approach. You also created a scholarship fund in honor of former Dean of Students O.W. Lacy, who convinced you to return to Trinity after a yearlong break following your first year; the fund focuses on helping students who return to Trinity after interruptions in their academic careers. As an alumnus, you have served on your Reunion committees and as a host for various events, and you are a member of the Elms Society. For all that you and Marlynn have done for the college, your names have been inscribed on Trinity’s Wall of Honor. At your 50th Reunion, you were awarded the Alumni Medal for Excellence.

Your support of education extends to Trinity-Pawling School, which you attended before coming to Trinity. There you have endowed scholarships and funded the construction or renovation of numerous campus buildings and athletic facilities. You also have provided tuition for students at Saint Edward’s School and have been a major donor to a new Boys & Girls Club, both in Vero Beach, Florida, where you now live.

Health care also is important to you; you serve as vice chair of the Indian River Medical Foundation, and you have been a great benefactor of Vero Beach’s Indian River Medical Center. First and foremost, you are one of two major donors to the Scully-Welsh Cancer Center, a transformative facility for both the hospital and its community. Second, you are the primary donor to the Scully Endoscopy Center, a gift driven by the loss of both your mother and Marlynn’s mother to cancer. Both efforts provide much-needed, high-quality cancer care and enhanced early diagnostic capability.

In the arts realm, you have been devoted to the Riverside Theatre in Vero Beach, serving as vice president of its board.

In recognition of the good you have done in giving so generously to education, health care, and the arts, and in setting an example for others to follow, I have the honor of presenting you, William Palmer Scully, for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Commencement Address

JOHNETTA BETSCH COLE

Commencement Speaker

Presented by Associate Professor of Philosophy Donna-Dale Marcano

It was in 1987 that you made history by becoming the first African American woman to serve as president of Spelman College, a top historically black college for women. That accomplishment was just one of the many ways that you would pave the way for others who follow you.

Your ambition was apparent early in life; at age 15, you entered Fisk University. You later transferred to Oberlin College, where you earned a B.A. in sociology, and then continued your studies at Northwestern University, earning an M.A. and Ph.D. in anthropology with a specialization in African studies.

After holding several teaching and administrative positions in anthropology, women's studies, and African American studies at institutions including Washington State University and Hunter College, you were appointed to the Spelman presidency. There you would be known for numerous achievements, including being at the helm when Spelman was named the No. 1 regional liberal arts college in the South by U.S. News & World Report and leading the college's most successful fundraising campaign, which resulted in the enormous growth of the endowment.

In 1997, you moved back into the classroom at Emory University and five years later made history again when you were named president of Bennett College; you have the distinction of being the lone individual to have served as president of the only two historically black colleges for women in the country. Highlights of your time at Bennett included the creation of programs in African women's studies and global studies, the establishment of an art gallery, and the founding of the Johnnetta B. Cole Global Diversity and Inclusion Institute.

Never one to retire, you were named in 2009 as director of the Smithsonian National Museum of African Art, the only museum in the United States fully dedicated to the collection, conservation, study, and exhibition of African art. During your eight-year tenure there, you were able to bring together your longtime passion for art, your involvement in the field of education, and your anthropological knowledge of the cultures of Africa. Upon leaving the museum last year, you were given the title of Director Emerita.

Other firsts for you include being the first African American woman to serve as chair of the board of the United Way of America and the first woman on the board of Coca-Cola Enterprises. You also have offered your leadership on the boards of Home Depot, Merck, and other firms, and you continue to serve on the board of Martha's Table, a nonprofit devoted to providing support for Washington, D.C.-area children, families, and communities. You also have authored or edited several books, including Conversations: Straight Talk with America's Sister President and All-American Women: Lines That Divide, Ties That Bind.

Today you find yourself sharing your wisdom as a principal consultant with Cook Ross, a Maryland firm that provides solutions in the areas of diversity, inclusion, cultural competency, leadership development, and organizational change management, and as a senior consulting fellow at the Mellon Foundation. Your role as a consultant is not far from the one of mentor that you held for so long during your illustrious career in higher education.

You have received honors and accolades aplenty, including membership in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and nearly 70 honorary degrees, including the one you received from Trinity two decades ago.

In recognition of your achievements as a groundbreaking college president, educator, and scholar, Trinity College was honored to bestow upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa, in 1998, and we are so very grateful to have you back on our campus today.

Alma Mater: “’Neath the Elms”

(arranged by Robert E. Smith, Composer-in-Residence)

The Trinity Pipes

’Neath the elms of our old Trinity,	College days are from care and sorrow free.
’Neath the elms of our dear old Trinity,	And oft will we seek in memory
No more shall we meet,	Those days that are past,
Our classmates to greet,	Far too joyous to last,
’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.	’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.

’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.	Then we’ll sing to our old Trinity,
’Neath the elms of our dear old Trinity	To our dear old Alma Mater, Trinity;
Oh it’s seldom we’ll meet,	We’re together today,
In the moonlight so sweet,	And tomorrow away,
’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.	Far away from our old Trinity.

On the hills of our old Trinity,
In the halls of our dear old Trinity,
There is bright merry cheer,
There are friends true and dear,
In the halls of our old Trinity.

The Academic Regalia

In 1895, a commission of leading American educators established the Intercollegiate Code pertaining to the academic costume. The color of the lining of the hood is that of the college or university conferring the degree. The edging of the hood and the tassel of the cap indicate the subject to which the degree pertains, in accordance with the following official designations for colleges and universities in the United States:

Agriculture	Maize
Arts, Letters, Humanities	White
Commerce, Accountancy, Business	Drab
Dentistry	Lilac
Economics	Copper
Education	Light blue
Engineering	Orange
Fine Arts, including Architecture	Brown
Forestry	Russet
Home Economics	Maroon
Journalism	Crimson
Law	Purple
Library Science	Lemon
Medicine	Green
Music	Pink
Nursing	Apricot
Oratory (Speech)	Silver gray
Pharmacy	Olive green
Philosophy	Dark blue
Physical Education	Sage green
Public Administration, including Foreign Service	Peacock blue
Public Health	Salmon pink
Science	Golden yellow
Social Work	Citron
Theology	Scarlet
Veterinary Science	Gray

Trinity College differs from the above list because the colors of Trinity hoods were established prior to the formulation of the code. Following are the colors of the academic hoods symbolizing the honorary degrees conferred by Trinity:

Doctor of Canon Law Crimson, lined with black	Doctor of Laws Scarlet, lined with dark blue
Doctor of Divinity Scarlet, lined with black	Doctor of Music White, lined with pink
Doctor of Fine Arts White, lined with white and a red chevron	Doctor of Sacred Theology Scarlet, lined with blue and a gold chevron
Doctor of Humane Letters Scarlet, lined with purple	Doctor of Science Black, lined with light blue
Doctor of Letters Scarlet, lined with russet brown	Master of Music Black, lined with pink
Doctor of Humanities White, lined with dark crimson

The Owen Morgan Mace

The mace, which precedes the president in academic processions and is a symbol of executive powers, was presented to Trinity in 1950 in memory of Owen Morgan, Class of 1906, who served his alma mater as a member of the Board of Fellows, as a trustee, and as treasurer of the college. Historically, maces were first used as weapons in warfare and later became a symbol of the sovereign and his power. One of the first known uses of a mace by an educational institution was at Cambridge University in the 13th century. Today a number of colleges use the mace as a symbol of authority and of the power invested in the president by the faculty and trustees. The Morgan Mace is made of ebony, signifying endurance; bronze, meaning power; and gold, symbolizing dignity and glory. It is 44 inches long and weighs 20 pounds. The fluted staff represents the various components of an enduring education. It is bound by a gold ribbon, inscribed with the names of every Trinity president. On the head, or urn, of the mace are six seals of the sources of life and growth of this college: the Great Seal of the United States; the Seal of the State of Connecticut; the Charter Oak; the original seal of the City of Hartford; the Washington Coat of Arms; and the seal of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut. Surmounting the Gothic urn is the Trinity College seal crowned by an eagle about to take flight, symbolizing the freedom and power of an educated person.

The Presidential Collar

The collar, which is worn on ceremonial occasions, is the visible symbol of the president's high office and authority. The collar was presented to the college in 1953 by former President G. Keith Funston, Class of 1932, in memory of his grandmother, Maria Briggs Keith. The chain symbolically links modern higher education with the universities of yesteryear. The golden seal of the Trinity president hangs from the collar, which is fashioned of 20 replicas of the Trinity elms and seven silver seals: the six reproduced in the mace and the Trinity College seal superimposed on a triangle representing the religious foundations of the college crowned by a sun signifying enlightenment. In the lower corners of the triangle are the Book and a pair of student's hands extended to receive it, symbolizing the desire of youth to receive an education.

The Luther-Roosevelt Long Walk Inscription

The inscription on a stone in front of the Fuller Arch at Northam Towers commemorates the visit in June 1918 of former U.S. President Theodore Roosevelt, who delivered an address the night before Commencement and received an honorary degree at the ceremony. The superstition holds that students who step on the stone may not graduate. As the Commencement procession passes over the stone every year, graduating seniors make a point of deliberately stepping on it.

Taking the theme of his address from Old Testament scripture, Roosevelt commented on the emptiness of boasting and its prejudicial effect on the conduct of World War I. He cited a passage from 1 Kings 20:11, in which the King of Israel responds to a boasting warrior, "Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off." The passage's Latin translation is inscribed in the stone. Roosevelt indicated that, in his estimation, thoughtless exaggeration of Americans' might had reinforced the German will to pursue the war. He reminded the approximately 5,000 people in the audience that much work remained to be done and that the country had to gear itself up for the supreme effort. Less than a month later, Roosevelt's youngest son, Quentin, was shot down in aerial combat in France.
