Joanne Berger-Sweeney

Honoring the Life of Chase Rideout Hyde '19

We remember with fondness and affection our friend and classmate Chase Rideout Hyde '19, who passed away in November 2018. Chase, who came to Trinity from Massachusetts, was majoring in sociology and was active in Pi Kappa Alpha. We will forever cherish our memories of him.

V
Presentation of the Trustee Awards for Faculty, Staff, and Student Excellence
Cornelia P. Thornburgh

Faculty

Timothy Curran

Professor of Chemistry

You are a popular teacher-scholar who can translate the complexities of organic chemistry in ways that motivate and challenge your students; you are widely respected for your high ethical and professional standards, service to the college, and accomplishments as a researcher.

Staff

Marcia Phelan Johnson

Budget Director

You are a financial administrator who positively collaborates and effectively connects with people across divisions, a leader who gracefully addresses and manages issues as they arise and who pours herself into Trinity's mission and operations.

Students

Vianna Iorio

Class of 2019

You are committed to academic excellence, earning far more than the required number of credits; devoted to helping other students succeed; and dedicated to being an involved citizen of the college and the Greater Hartford communities.

Simran D. Sheth

Class of 2019

You are an animated ambassador of the college, committed to academic excellence in mathematics and computer science, and exceptionally enthusiastic about the full college experience, bridging diverse communities, and inviting others to engage and lead with heart.

VI

Presentation of the Thomas Church Brownell Prize for Teaching Excellence, the Dean Arthur H. Hughes Award for Achievement in Teaching, and the Charles A. Dana Research Professorship Award

Tim Cresswell

The Thomas Church Brownell Prize for Teaching Excellence

Adrienne Fulco

Associate Professor of Legal and Policy Studies

You challenge your students to examine and question their beliefs and to be tolerant of the beliefs of others; your dedication to the Public Policy and Law Program has transformed it into a coherent, rigorous, and engaging program that is one of Trinity's most popular majors.

The Dean Arthur H. Hughes Award for Achievement in Teaching

Michelle L. Kovarik

Assistant Professor of Chemistry

You are a passionate teacher, requiring participation and fostering engagement in all of your students, and a skilled mentor in the laboratory, playing to students' strengths and improving their weaknesses.

The Charles A. Dana Research Professorship Award

Pablo Delano

Professor of Fine Arts

You are a photographer whose most recent project, The Museum of the Old Colony, is a cross-media conceptual art installation that sheds light on the plight of your homeland of Puerto Rico; you plan to incorporate into the project your reflections on the turmoil resulting from the devastation caused by Hurricanes Irma and Maria.

The Charles A. Dana Research Associate Professorship Award

Lin Cheng

Associate Professor of Engineering

You study wireless communications and signal processing, in particular vehicle-to-vehicle (V2V) communication, which gives vehicles the ability to wirelessly exchange information about speed and position; you aim to explore several models to adapt to different geographic and traffic scenarios for V2V implementation.

Abigail Fisher Williamson

Associate Professor of Political Science and Public Policy and Law

You study immigration policy, health policy, urban politics, and political behavior; you plan to examine how and why cities welcome immigrants and to analyze Americans' views on who deserves what when it comes to health.

VII

Presentation of the Book

Jennifer M. Regan-Lefebvre

Secretary of the Faculty

This precious book has been touched by each graduating class on Commencement day.

It is a symbol of knowledge committed to the care of the faculty during this past year.

On behalf of the faculty, I now present it to you that you may once again place it in the hands of those who are about to be graduated.

President

I accept this book held in your loyal custody, and I gratefully thank all of you for educating these men and women devotedly in the tradition of Trinity College.

Conferring of Honorary Degrees

Joanne Berger-Sweeney

BRUCE N. WHITMAN
Trinity Class of 1955
Doctor of Humane Letters

Son Stewart L. Whitman II presented by Trustee Emeritus Douglas T. Tansill '61, P'91, '96

He was long known as a giant of the aviation industry, a true pioneer in flight training and simulation who was devoted to promoting safety and outstanding crew performance. Bruce N. Whitman, a proud member of the Trinity College Class of 1955, passed away in October 2018, after the college had made plans to award him an honorary degree.

Whitman's commitment to service started early. He spent two summers as a seaman with the U.S. Merchant Marine while attending Trinity, where he was a member of Alpha Delta Phi and the varsity tennis team. After graduating with a B.A. in English, Whitman served in the U.S. Air Force as a pilot, navigator, and bombardier in the Strategic Air Command. After active duty, Whitman returned to academia and began study at The George Washington University Law School, all the while flying in the Air Force Reserve and as a captain for East Coast Flying Service.

In 1961, Whitman joined FlightSafety International, the nation's premier aviation training organization, as assistant to the president, and in less than a year, he was named vice president and a director of the company. The following year, he was named executive vice president, and in 2003, he was tapped as CEO.

The number of honors and awards that Whitman received is extensive, so much so that it would be impossible to fit them on this page. Highlights in just the past few years include Aviation Week's 2018 Philip J. Klass Lifetime Achievement Award, given for contributions to air crew and passenger safety; the 2016 National Business Aviation Association American Spirit Award, for exemplifying the courage, pursuit of excellence, and service to others that characterize men and women who created and nurtured the American aviation community; and the 2016 Médaille de l'Aéronautique from France, for outstanding accomplishments related to the field of aeronautics. In 2015, he was inducted into the Living Legends of Aviation in recognition of his outstanding accomplishments and contributions to aviation.

Whitman's board service also was extensive. He was one of the original organizers and chair of the Congressional Medal of Honor Foundation, leading the establishment of the foundation's Character Development Program, which teaches secondary school students life lessons about service, patriotism, and good citizenship. He also served on the boards of Orbis International, which is dedicated to the prevention and treatment of eye diseases in developing nations; the Corporate Angel Network, which transports cancer patients to hospitals at no cost; the AirForce Academy Falcon Foundation, which provides scholarships to youths who want to attend the Air Force Academy; the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum; the National World War II Museum; and many others.

Whitman's ties to Trinity run deep. He attended many Reunions, including his 50th, and at one time served as vice president of the college's alumni association chapter in Washington, D.C.

In recognition of his distinguished career and enormous contributions to the aviation and aerospace industries, and as a result, to the global collaborations that are realized thanks to flight, I have the honor of posthumously awarding to Bruce N. Whitman the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

NANCY BETH LUBLIN
Doctor of Humane Letters

Presented by Associate Professor of Psychology Laura J. Holt '00

It was only five short years ago that Fortune magazine chose you as one of the “World’s 50 Greatest Leaders,” hailing you as a standout among social entrepreneurs. The NonProfit Times has named you to its Power & Influence Top 50 list not once, not twice, but three times. In 2014, you were tapped as the Schwab Social Entrepreneur of the Year. It is quite clear that you truly have dedicated your life to community service and social change.

You grew up in nearby West Hartford, graduated in 1993 from Brown University with a concentration in politics, and in 1995 earned a master’s of letters in political theory from Oxford University, where you studied as a Marshall Scholar. In 1996, while in your second year of law school at New York University, you transformed a $5,000 inheritance from your great-grandfather into Dress for Success, a nonprofit that offers a network of career development support and professional attire as it helps women transition from welfare to work. While you started the organization in a Manhattan church basement with the help of three nuns, it is now a thriving enterprise for social good in more than 150 cities in 30 countries.

In 2003, you assumed the role of CEO of DoSomething.org and in your 12 years there took the once-failing nonprofit to great heights as it helped mobilize young people around the world to volunteer and work for positive change. Your extraordinary work there led Fast Company magazine to dub you “one of the most creative people in business.”

Not one to rest on past accomplishments, in 2013—while still at DoSomething.org—you founded Crisis Text Line, a free, 24/7 texting hotline for those in crisis. The idea was sparked by a cry for help that came via text to DoSomething.org, and within four months of launching, Crisis Text Line possessed a reach that stretched across the entire country. “We want to be where you are,” you note on Crisis Text Line’s website. “We want to make it as easy as possible for people who are in pain to get help.” With more than 100 million messages processed to date, one can safely say you are accomplishing your mission with each passing day.

You have shared your vast knowledge of social change with others by authoring several books, including Do Something! A Handbook for Young Activists (2010), Zilch: The Power of Zero in Business (2010), and Zilch: How to Get More for Less in Business (2011). You also are a board member of McGraw-Hill Education, a company that strives to create effective learning experiences for students. In your role as chair of the board of Change.org, you help lead an organization that allows everyday people to gain a voice by uniting with others through petitions. As a Young Global Leader of the World Economic Forum in Switzerland, you gather with leaders from throughout the world to shape agendas in the global public interest.

In recognition of your worthy and unending contributions to the greater good, I have the honor of presenting you, Nancy Beth Lublin, for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

SAMUEL H. KENNEDY
Trinity Class Of 1995
Doctor of Humane Letters

Presented by Director of Athletics and Chair of Physical Education Andrew T. Galbraith

A story about you in The Trinity Reporter alumni magazine a couple of years ago gave a glimpse into your start in Major League Baseball. It told the tale of a winter morning in 1993, when as a sophomore here at Trinity College, you sat in front of your computer and wrote letters to all 28 MLB teams, asking for career advice and a crack at a summer internship. Your ambition was clear; you knew then that you wanted a career in baseball. Your dogged determination paid off in a big way, with successive internships with the New York Yankees and six years working with the San Diego Padres.

It was in 2002 that you returned to your Massachusetts roots and a position with your beloved Boston Red Sox. You had grown up within walking distance of Fenway Park, watching countless Red Sox games while perched atop the shoulders of your father, an Episcopal priest who received discounted tickets as part of a clergy pass program.

Now entering your 18th season with the club and your third as president and CEO—and fresh off the Red Sox’s 2018 World Series Championship—the reinstatement of that clergy pass program is just one of your many achievements with the organization. While playing an instrumental role in the dramatic growth of the Red Sox brand, you have sharpened your focus on encouraging children to come to the ballpark through the creation of Gate K—a special entrance for kids—and a free ticket for all youngsters who sign up for Red Sox Kid Nation. You have been key to making Fenway Park a year-round venue, with concerts, football, ice hockey, and more taking place at the site.

You also serve as chief executive of Fenway Sports Management, which you helped to create in 2004. This sports marketing and sales agency is—along with the Red Sox—part of the Fenway Sports Group family. The agency’s clients include sister companies such as Roush Fenway Racing and NESN and partnerships with Boston College and NBA superstar LeBron James.

Others have recognized your substantial achievements. You have been honored with the Boston Business Journal’s 40 Under 40 Award and named multiple times to the Sports Business Journal’s 40 Under 40 Hall of Fame. A native of Brookline, you are active in the community, serving on the Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center Trustee Advisory Board and Marketing Committee; the Board of Trustees of the Winsor School; and the Board of Directors of Camp Harbor View, which aims to help underserved children in the Boston area.

For you, Trinity is a family affair. It was ’neath the elms that you met your wife of 20 years, Amanda Johnson Kennedy, Class of 1994, while she was earning a B.A. in economics with a minor in environment and human values and you were earning a B.A. in American studies. You have served Trinity as a member of its Board of Fellows, while Amanda continues to contribute as a member of the National Alumni Association Executive Committee. In 2015, Trinity honored you with its Gary McQuaid Award, given for your leadership as an undergraduate and for your subsequent success in the business world.

In recognition of your distinguished career in Major League Baseball—in particular with the Boston Red Sox—and for your charitable work with the community and on behalf of children, I have the honor of presenting you, Samuel H. Kennedy, for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Alma Mater: “’Neath the Elms”

(arranged by Christopher Houlihan ’09)

The Trinity Pipes

’Neath the elms of our old Trinity,	College days are from care and sorrow free.
’Neath the elms of our dear old Trinity,	And oft will we seek in memory
No more shall we meet,	Those days that are past,
Our classmates to greet,	Far too joyous to last,
’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.	’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.

’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.	Then we’ll sing to our old Trinity,
’Neath the elms of our dear old Trinity	To our dear old Alma Mater, Trinity;
Oh it’s seldom we’ll meet,	We’re together today,
In the moonlight so sweet,	And tomorrow away,
’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.	Far away from our old Trinity.

On the hills of our old Trinity,
In the halls of our dear old Trinity,
There is bright merry cheer,
There are friends true and dear,
In the halls of our old Trinity.

The Academic Regalia

In 1895, a commission of leading American educators established the Intercollegiate Code pertaining to the academic costume. The color of the lining of the hood is that of the college or university conferring the degree. The edging of the hood and the tassel of the cap indicate the subject to which the degree pertains, in accordance with the following official designations for colleges and universities in the United States:

Agriculture	Maize
Arts, Letters, Humanities	White
Commerce, Accountancy, Business	Drab
Dentistry	Lilac
Economics	Copper
Education	Light blue
Engineering	Orange
Fine Arts, including Architecture	Brown
Forestry	Russet
Home Economics	Maroon
Journalism	Crimson
Law	Purple
Library Science	Lemon
Medicine	Green
Music	Pink
Nursing	Apricot
Oratory (Speech)	Silver gray
Pharmacy	Olive green
Philosophy	Dark blue
Physical Education	Sage green
Public Administration, including Foreign Service	Peacock blue
Public Health	Salmon pink
Science	Golden yellow
Social Work	Citron
Theology	Scarlet
Veterinary Science	Gray

Trinity College differs from the above list because the colors of Trinity hoods were established prior to the formulation of the code. Following are the colors of the academic hoods symbolizing the honorary degrees conferred by Trinity:

Doctor of Canon Law Crimson, lined with black	Doctor of Laws Scarlet, lined with dark blue
Doctor of Divinity Scarlet, lined with black	Doctor of Music White, lined with pink
Doctor of Fine Arts White, lined with white and a red chevron	Doctor of Sacred Theology Scarlet, lined with blue and a gold chevron
Doctor of Humane Letters Scarlet, lined with purple	Doctor of Science Black, lined with light blue
Doctor of Letters Scarlet, lined with russet brown	Master of Music Black, lined with pink
Doctor of Humanities White, lined with dark crimson

The Owen Morgan Mace

The mace, which precedes the president in academic processions and is a symbol of executive powers, was presented to Trinity in 1950 in memory of Owen Morgan, Class of 1906, who served his alma mater as a member of the Board of Fellows, as a trustee, and as treasurer of the college. Historically, maces were first used as weapons in warfare and later became a symbol of the sovereign and his power. One of the first known uses of a mace by an educational institution was at Cambridge University in the 13th century. Today a number of colleges use the mace as a symbol of authority and of the power invested in the president by the faculty and trustees. The Morgan Mace is made of ebony, signifying endurance; bronze, meaning power; and gold, symbolizing dignity and glory. It is 44 inches long and weighs 20 pounds. The fluted staff represents the various components of an enduring education. It is bound by a gold ribbon, inscribed with the names of every Trinity president. On the head, or urn, of the mace are six seals of the sources of life and growth of this college: the Great Seal of the United States; the Seal of the State of Connecticut; the Charter Oak; the original seal of the City of Hartford; the Washington Coat of Arms; and the seal of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut. Surmounting the Gothic urn is the Trinity College seal crowned by an eagle about to take flight, symbolizing the freedom and power of an educated person.

The Presidential Collar

The collar, which is worn on ceremonial occasions, is the visible symbol of the president's high office and authority. The collar was presented to the college in 1953 by former President G. Keith Funston, Class of 1932, in memory of his grandmother, Maria Briggs Keith. The chain symbolically links modern higher education with the universities of yesteryear. The golden seal of the Trinity president hangs from the collar, which is fashioned of 20 replicas of the Trinity elms and seven silver seals: the six reproduced in the mace and the Trinity College seal superimposed on a triangle representing the religious foundations of the college crowned by a sun signifying enlightenment. In the lower corners of the triangle are the Book and a pair of student's hands extended to receive it, symbolizing the desire of youth to receive an education.

The Luther-Roosevelt Long Walk Inscription

The inscription on a stone in front of the Fuller Arch at Northam Towers commemorates the visit in June 1918 of former U.S. President Theodore Roosevelt, who delivered an address the night before Commencement and received an honorary degree at the ceremony. The superstition holds that students who step on the stone may not graduate. As the Commencement procession passes over the stone every year, graduating seniors make a point of deliberately stepping on it.

Taking the theme of his address from Old Testament scripture, Roosevelt commented on the emptiness of boasting and its prejudicial effect on the conduct of World War I. He cited a passage from 1 Kings 20:11, in which the King of Israel responds to a boasting warrior, “Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off.” The passage’s Latin translation is inscribed in the stone. Roosevelt indicated that, in his estimation, thoughtless exaggeration of Americans’ might had reinforced the German will to pursue the war. He reminded the approximately 5,000 people in the audience that much work remained to be done and that the country had to gear itself up for the supreme effort. Less than a month later, Roosevelt’s youngest son, Quentin, was shot down in aerial combat in France.
