Presentation of the Trustee Awards for Faculty, Staff, and Student Excellence and for Lifetime Achievement

Lisa G. Bisaccia

Faculty

Kevin J. McMahon

John R. Reitemeyer Professor of Political Science

You are a prominent scholar whose work analyzes the relationship between the U.S. presidency and the Supreme Court. You have served as faculty secretary, director of the Public Policy Graduate Studies Program, co-director of the Academy of Lifelong Learning, and more.

Irene Papoulis

Principal Lecturer in the Allan K. Smith Center for Writing and Rhetoric

You are a wonderful teacher and adviser who has played an invaluable role as director of academic advising and faculty development, helping to guide faculty regarding the new Trinity Plus curriculum. Your contributions extend beyond Trinity's writing and rhetoric program.

Staff

Robert Lukaskiewicz

Dean of Community Life and Standards and Interim Director of Campus Safety

You are responsible for the work of two important functions on campus—community life and standards and the Office of Campus Safety. As interim director of campus safety, you have improved its operations while supporting our community in your original role.

Patricia A. Dinkins

Human Resources Operations Specialist

As a member of the Trinity community for more than 40 years, you have supported students, faculty, staff, and external partners with your extraordinary commitment, knowledge, and grace. Your above-and-beyond contributions have been a consistent and reliable resource for employees.

Students

Deion Kelly

Class of 2023

With a major in sociology and a minor in community action, you have embraced Trinity's range of opportunities. Your learning extends from working with schools in Hartford, to wellness courses in civic and environmental engagement, to Hartford research and Liberal Arts Action Lab projects.

Zoë Camille Sylvester-Chin

Class of 2023

Finding inspiration in interdisciplinary study focused on social inequities, you have served as a first-year seminar mentor, a teaching assistant, and a student writing associate while majoring in economics and minoring in formal organizations, exploring finance and banking internships along the way.

Lifetime Achievement

Paul D. Assaiante P'06

Paul D. Assaiante Professor of Physical Education and Associate Director of Athletic Endowment

You have been hailed as the greatest coach in the history of collegiate squash and one of the winningest coaches in any sport, guiding Trinity men's squash to 13 consecutive College Squash Association national titles and 252 wins in a row, the longest winning streak in the history of intercollegiate varsity sports.

VI

Presentation of the Thomas Church Brownell Prize for Teaching Excellence and the Dean Arthur H. Hughes Award for Achievement in Teaching

Sonia Cardenas

The Thomas Church Brownell Prize for Teaching Excellence

Kifah Hanna

Associate Professor of Language and Culture Studies

You are a professor of Arabic and scholar of women writers who challenges her students, exploring with them new worlds of literature, culture, and film. You also are appreciated as an energetic adviser of first-year students in our Humanities Gateway Program.

Ethan Rutherford

Associate Professor of English

You are described as embodying the ideals of a liberal arts education—a faculty member dedicated to balancing students' autonomy with a professor's careful guidance. You also are valued for inspiring first-year students in the InterArts program.

The Dean Arthur H. Hughes Award for Achievement in Teaching

Clayton Byers

Assistant Professor of Engineering

You are an engineer who models creativity and ingenuity; your outstanding teaching and advising has endeared you to your students, including when you, quite literally, spun like an ice-skater to demonstrate the mass moment of inertia.

Lindsey Hanson

Assistant Professor of Chemistry

You are a chemist who teaches difficult subjects in a way that sparks curiosity and understanding, and your dedication has impacted your students in meaningful and transformative ways, propelling them into careers in science and doctoral degrees in physical chemistry.

Gerardo Ruiz Sánchez

Assistant Professor of Economics

You are an economics professor known as a captivating lecturer, who is always warm and gregarious. You are a hardworking teacher-scholar who creates an exceptionally positive and supportive environment for his students, mentoring them in both economics and in life.

The Charles A. Dana Research Professorship Award

Joseph L. Palladino

Professor of Engineering

You specialize in biomechanics, the study of biological systems using applied mathematics and physics. Your models have real-world applications, and you have received several grants, including from the National Science Foundation and NASA. You plan to develop a new paradigm to model muscular structures.

The Charles A. Dana Research Associate Professorship Award

Cheyenne S. Brindle

Associate Professor of Chemistry

You design catalysts that are lower cost and more environmentally friendly than traditional metallic catalysts. You and your students developed an inexpensive method to purify the products of their reactions. You plan to apply this method to discover new natural products from plant extracts.

Diana R. Paulin

Associate Professor of American Studies and English

Your work spans late 19th- and early 20th-century U.S. fiction and drama, disability studies, African American/U.S. literature and drama, and American studies. You are working on a monograph highlighting the intersection of autism and Blackness, through the lens of structural and systemic inequities.

VII

Presentation of the Book

Susan Masino

Secretary of the Faculty

This precious book has been touched by each graduating class on Commencement day. It is a symbol of knowledge committed to the care of the faculty during this past year. On behalf of the faculty, I now present it to you that you may once again place it in the hands of those who are about to be graduated.

President

I accept this book held in your loyal custody, and I gratefully thank all of you for educating these individuals devotedly in the tradition of Trinity College.

Conferring of Honorary Degrees

Joanne Berger-Sweeney

SIDNIE WHITE CRAWFORD
Trinity Class of 1981
Doctor of Divinity

You, Sidnie White Crawford, have distinguished yourself as a first-rate educator and an internationally recognized scholar. There are few around the world who possess your credentials in biblical studies and archaeology, and through your lifelong commitment to teaching, we have more clearly discovered our human history—equitably and passionately.

As a student at Trinity, you majored in religion and music, graduating Phi Beta Kappa and with honors. Your pursuit of education continued, and in 1984, you completed a master of theological studies degree from Harvard Divinity School. Four years later, you received a Ph.D., with distinction, from Harvard University, where you studied under world-renowned biblical scholar Frank Moore Cross.

It is at Harvard that your career in higher education began, prior to teaching at St. Olaf College and then, from 1989 to 1997, at Albright College, where you served as an assistant and then associate professor of religious studies. In 1997, you joined the faculty at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, where you remain the Willa Cather Professor of Hebrew Bible and Second Temple Judaism, Emerita. You also serve as a visiting scholar in the Department of Biblical Studies at Princeton Theological Seminary.

Through your distinguished career, you have become a foremost authority in the specialized areas of the Dead Sea Scrolls, the history and literature of Second Temple Judaism, and textual criticism of the Hebrew Bible/Old Testament, as well as the textual development of the Pentateuch, scribal traditions, and women in the biblical world. Your work has been groundbreaking in the interpretation of the Qumran texts, helping to inform how archaeology has affected the study and interpretation of the Bible.

As an author, your work has been published in the most well-respected journals of biblical literature. Among many other accomplishments, you have published critical editions of more than 10 Dead Sea Scroll manuscripts, as well as articles and books on the origins and identity of the Qumran community. You were a member of the international team responsible for the editio princeps of the Qumran Dead Sea Scrolls manuscripts. This first-ever printed edition of the manuscripts is considered to be a keystone in the history of archaeology, with great historical, religious, and linguistic significance that altered the world's understanding of biblical text development.

It was in 2019 that you published the book Scribes and Scrolls at Qumran, combining the conclusions of the first generation of scrolls scholars that have withstood the test of time while creating a new synthesis of text and archaeology that yields a convincing history of and purpose for the Qumran settlement. For authoring this book and supporting public understanding of the history and cultures from the earliest of times, you were selected for two prestigious honors: The Frank Moore Cross Award from the American School of Overseas Research and the Biblical Archaeology Society's Best Popular Book on Archaeology distinction. Your latest book is The Text of the Pentateuch: Textual Criticism and the Dead Sea Scrolls, which was published in 2022.

Well-known for your personal commitment to your craft, to the students you teach, and to the history you care for, you routinely offer your time and talent to committees that call upon your expertise. You have served as chair of the Board of Trustees of the W.F. Albright Institute of Archaeological Research in Jerusalem, the American headquarters for archaeological research in the Holy Land. You are a member of numerous editorial boards, including for Hermeneia, the updated edition of the New Revised Standard Version of the Bible, and The Hebrew Bible: A Critical Edition. And at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, you were the associate director of the Harris Center for Judaic Studies and a member of the Advisory Board for Women's and Gender Studies.

Since you last studied 'neath the elms, you have remained a well-connected supporter of Trinity. In recognition of your distinguished career in higher education and of devoting a lifetime of work to religious studies, I have the honor of presenting you, Sidnie White Crawford, for the degree of Doctor of Divinity, honoris causa.

NICOLE HOCKLEY
Trinity Class of 1992
Doctor of Humane Letters

It is a promise made to transform tragedy into positive cultural change for a safer future and to take a public health, evidence-informed approach to address the epidemic of gun violence. This is your promise, Nicole Hockley. It is the Sandy Hook Promise.

Before December 14, 2012, you were an accomplished strategic marketing and communications professional for companies in the United States and the United Kingdom. But on that day, the course of your life changed forever when your 6-year-old son, Dylan, was killed by a gunman inside Sandy Hook Elementary School in Newtown, Connecticut, in one of the deadliest school shootings in U.S. history, a day former President Barack Obama calls the darkest of his presidency.

You chose to transform unspeakable grief and anguish into action, when one month later, in January 2013, you co-founded Sandy Hook Promise, a national nonprofit whose mission is to prevent violence in schools, homes, and communities. Today, as the nonprofit's chief executive officer, you have become a leading national voice on school safety and gun violence prevention, rising above the political divide to help ensure a brighter tomorrow.

Your intent is to honor all victims of gun violence by turning the Sandy Hook tragedy into a moment of transformation by offering programs and policies that protect young lives. Your leadership and advocacy have led to more than 18.5 million people participating in Sandy Hook Promise's lifesaving programs, averting countless acts of violence, with more than 3,270 mental health interventions, as well as 460 suicides prevented and at least 15 planned school attacks stopped. It is true that because of Sandy Hook Promise, communities are safer and policies are stronger.

As one of America's most well-respected thought leaders on the gun violence epidemic, you have presented several TEDx Talks; your opinion editorials have been published by Newsweek, CNN, USA Today, and InStyle; and your commentary has been featured on CNN, MSNBC, Newsy, ABC, CBS, Fox, and NBC, among countless other media outlets.

You have said that your Trinity experience, where you earned a B.A. in English and theater and dance and participated in countless extracurricular activities, has helped drive your successful career in marketing and now in your life's newest mission. There is evidence to support the claim. The award-winning public service announcement campaigns you helped co-create with BBDO New York have amassed hundreds of millions of views worldwide, including "Evan," which generated two billion impressions and 10 coveted Cannes Lions Awards, and "Back-to-School Essentials" and "Teenage Dream," each of which earned a prestigious Emmy Award for Outstanding Commercial, in 2019 and 2022, respectively.

You were honored by Trinity with its 2017 Alumni Achievement Award, with your citation noting your "courage, hard work, and selflessness." You also were recognized in 2016 by People magazine as one of its 25 Women Changing the World, though your motivation lies closer to home in caring for your surviving son, Jake, and through the work of Sandy Hook Promise.

In recognition of your solemn promise to honor your son Dylan and the 25 other lives taken on December 14, 2012, and of your lifesaving work to encourage and support solutions that create safer and healthier homes, schools, and communities, I have the honor of presenting you, Nicole Hockley, for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Greetings from the Trinity College Alumni Association

Jawanza J. Gross '94, P'12

XV

Alma Mater: “'Neath the Elms”

(arranged by Robert Edward Smith)

The Trinity Pipes

'Neath the elms of our old Trinity,	College days are from care and sorrow free.
'Neath the elms of our dear old Trinity,	And oft will we seek in memory
No more shall we meet,	Those days that are past,
Our classmates to greet,	Far too joyous to last,
'Neath the elms of our old Trinity.	'Neath the elms of our old Trinity.

'Neath the elms of our old Trinity.	Then we'll sing to our old Trinity,
'Neath the elms of our dear old Trinity	To our dear old Alma Mater, Trinity;
Oh it's seldom we'll meet,	We're together today,
In the moonlight so sweet,	And tomorrow away,
'Neath the elms of our old Trinity.	Far away from our old Trinity.

On the hills of our old Trinity,
In the halls of our dear old Trinity,
There is bright merry cheer,
There are friends true and dear,
In the halls of our old Trinity.

Benediction

The Academic Regalia

In 1895, a commission of leading American educators established the Intercollegiate Code pertaining to the academic costume. The color of the lining of the hood is that of the college or university conferring the degree. The edging of the hood and the tassel of the cap indicate the subject to which the degree pertains, in accordance with the following official designations for colleges and universities in the United States:

Agriculture	Maize
Arts, Letters, Humanities	White
Commerce, Accountancy, Business	Drab
Dentistry	Lilac
Economics	Copper
Education	Light blue
Engineering	Orange
Fine Arts, including Architecture	Brown
Forestry	Russet
Home Economics	Maroon
Journalism	Crimson
Law	Purple
Library Science	Lemon
Medicine	Green
Music	Pink
Nursing	Apricot
Oratory (Speech)	Silver gray
Pharmacy	Olive green
Philosophy	Dark blue
Physical Education	Sage green
Public Administration, including Foreign Service	Peacock blue
Public Health	Salmon pink
Science	Golden yellow
Social Work	Citron
Theology	Scarlet
Veterinary Science	Gray

Trinity College differs from the above list because the colors of Trinity hoods were established prior to the formulation of the code. Following are the colors of the academic hoods symbolizing the honorary degrees conferred by Trinity:

Doctor of Canon Law Crimson, lined with black	Doctor of Laws Scarlet, lined with dark blue
Doctor of Divinity Scarlet, lined with black	Doctor of Music White, lined with pink
Doctor of Fine Arts White, lined with white and a red chevron	Doctor of Sacred Theology Scarlet, lined with blue and a gold chevron
Doctor of Humane Letters Scarlet, lined with purple	Doctor of Science Black, lined with light blue
Doctor of Letters Scarlet, lined with russet brown	Master of Music Black, lined with pink
Doctor of Humanities White, lined with dark crimson

The Owen Morgan Mace

The mace, which precedes the president in academic processions and is a symbol of executive powers, was presented to Trinity in 1950 in memory of Owen Morgan, Class of 1906, who served his alma mater as a member of the Board of Fellows, as a trustee, and as treasurer of the College. Historically, maces were first used as weapons in warfare and later became a symbol of the sovereign and his power. One of the first known uses of a mace by an educational institution was at Cambridge University in the 13th century. Today a number of colleges use the mace as a symbol of authority and of the power invested in the president by the faculty and trustees. The Morgan Mace is made of ebony, signifying endurance; bronze, meaning power; and gold, symbolizing dignity and glory. It is 44 inches long and weighs 20 pounds. The fluted staff represents the various components of an enduring education. It is bound by a gold ribbon, inscribed with the names of every Trinity president. On the head, or urn, of the mace are six seals of the sources of life and growth of this College: the Great Seal of the United States; the Seal of the State of Connecticut; the Charter Oak; the original seal of the City of Hartford; the Washington Coat of Arms; and the seal of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut. Surmounting the Gothic urn is the Trinity College seal crowned by an eagle about to take flight, symbolizing the freedom and power of an educated person.

The Presidential Collar

The collar, which is worn on ceremonial occasions, is the visible symbol of the president's high office and authority. The collar was presented to the College in 1953 by former President G. Keith Funston, Class of 1932, in memory of his grandmother, Maria Briggs Keith. The chain symbolically links modern higher education with the universities of yesteryear. The golden seal of the Trinity president hangs from the collar, which is fashioned of 20 replicas of the Trinity elms and seven silver seals: the six reproduced in the mace and the Trinity College seal superimposed on a triangle representing the religious foundations of the College crowned by a sun signifying enlightenment. In the lower corners of the triangle are the Book and a pair of student's hands extended to receive it, symbolizing the desire of youth to receive an education.

The Luther-Roosevelt Long Walk Inscription

The inscription on a stone in front of the Fuller Arch at Northam Towers commemorates the visit in June 1918 of former U.S. President Theodore Roosevelt, who delivered an address the day before Commencement and received an honorary degree at the ceremony.

The superstition holds that students who step on the stone may not graduate.

As the Commencement procession passes over the stone every year, graduating seniors make a point of deliberately stepping on it.

Taking the theme of his address from Old Testament scripture, Roosevelt commented on the emptiness of boasting and its prejudicial effect on the conduct of World War I. He cited a passage from 1 Kings 20:11, in which the King of Israel responds to a boasting warrior, “Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off.” The passage’s Latin translation is inscribed in the stone. Roosevelt indicated that, in his estimation, thoughtless exaggeration of Americans’ might had reinforced the German will to pursue the war. He reminded the approximately 5,000 people in the audience that much work remained to be done and that the country had to gear itself up for the supreme effort. Less than a month later, Roosevelt’s youngest son, Quentin, was shot down in aerial combat in France.
